PLAYS OF NEXT WEEK.

Commencing next Menday Mr. Augustin Daly, will present at the Lafayette Square Opera House the opera "Hansel and Gretel," sung by Sir Augustus Harris' Landon Opera

For the presentation here an orchestra of twenty-five musicians has been especially engaged, which in itself is a guarantee that the music is of a most pretentious nature the mose is of a most pretentions nature. The story is so simple, though most beautifully produced, that children can follow it and understand it perfectly. The music is prenounced the dmittest and most captivating that has been heard in many years. It is put on in a most lavish manner. The scenery is very elaborate, especially the illuminated stairway to Heaven, which is resolved on the latter of the stair with a resolved on the stair way to Heaven, which is resolved on the stair way to Heaven, which is resolved on the stair way to Heaven, which is splendent with light and Jewels, with a host of angels moving up and down the amirs. A nevel scene for children is one which shows the witches ginger-breadhouse and her bake oven. The stery set forth in Hansel and Gretel" is sufficiently novel and auractive to capture the attention of grown op play-goers as well as children. It deals on pay goes as wen as chargen. It deals with the preity legend relating to the adventures of a poor breom-seller's children who, driven into the frost by their angry mother, come under the protection of good angels. The charm of the grera lines in us simplicity and in the heauty of its music.

Beginning on Monday, November 18, Hoyr's "A Milk White Flag" will again be seen at the New National Theater for one week. It is the most elaborate of this clever author's stage productions. It is a good natured satire on the social feibles of our gallant amateur soldiers, and the author has habiled his subject with keen wit and kindly humor.

The commany which will present "A The company which will present "A Milk White Fing" numbers fifty people, and contains many of the old Involftes, such as Lloyd Wilson, John 8. Marbic, Ed. Garvie, Charles Stanley, Frank Lawton,

LOYAL TO THEIR SCHOOLS.

Pupils in Friendly Rivalry Over the Teachers' Bazaar. By industry and well directed efforts the nanagement of the teachers' bazaar are now in a position to feel that success will crown their efforts.

So far the most remarkable feature of the coming bazaar has been the manner in which the subject has been kept out of the schools. So afraid have the teachers been of intrenching upon the time of their pupils to the detriment of their scholarly advancement, that exaggerated care has been used to avoid the subject during lesson time. But general interest is growing so strong that the pipils themselves are tak-ing up the subject with intelligence and

Each high school seems to have a par-Each high school seems to have a particular fad, and great is the mystery surrounding each. The Western is cellecting buttons, whose ultimate use is involved in mystery, and at recess times the bray of the camel fills the air. The Central follows the injunction, "Let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth," for each year has its secret which no other year must know. At the Eastern, sectional spirit runs high; their one purpose seems to be to "whip the Central," and they despair not because of disparity in size. despair not because of disparity in size.

At the business, yeast powder boxes, yeast powder bottles, vascime bottles, ashes, old kid gloves, and, in fact, a well assorted junk, shop outfit is being solemnly collected, and the spiritis sectional in another sense. It seems to be the ambition of every section and of almost every section teacher come out on top in the race for wealth, and the principal seizes the opportunity to inculcate business axioms and instill business methods.

A scheme of this sort, if carried to an extreme might be an injury to the schools; but, properly subordinated to legitimate work, it is doing a great deal to cause work, it is doing a great ceal to cause unity of feeling and purpose in each school, composed, as they are, of pupils from all parts of the city, to produce sympathy and good feeling among the teachers, of whom a large proportion are new, and who also come with diverse interests and prejudices; and to create an intimacy bet ween teachers and pupils, who meet here on common ground, as equal promoters of the worthy cause, good effects of which cannot be overestimated.

Like the Old Lady who believed that there was but one tune, and that tune was "God Save the Queen," are the ladies that believe that there is but one butterine worth buying. And that is ALDERNEY CREAMERY BUITERINE. It has all the excellent qualities of the costlicat butter. But it has none of the disagreeable qualities of butter. It has several qualities not possessed by any butter to wit: ALDERNEY CREAMERY

ely bealthier; never grows is pure, more delicious and delicate in bouquet; absolute rancid. It is the best for all purposes and it costs less that Clover Creamery25c a pound Alderney Creamery. Extra Dairy, for Cooking...... 15c a pound
